Audio Clip 1

Hello, and welcome to day 8 in the journey. By the way, I'm not in the mood and I don't want to do this. I'm a Manifestor and I don't care what you think. I had a lovely afternoon, I was rehearsing with the band and I realized that I don't like my day job. No, I don't mean that either.

But anyway, I do have to make an announcement, because the gods of time are going to step in this evening. Here in Europe we go to summertime, today, so you need to put your clocks ahead one hour when you go to bed tonight. You lose an hour of sleep. I promise you'll get it back in the Fall. Just so you're not confused, we will start at the same time locally, in other words, 5:00 here tomorrow.

Over these last seven days, I have been taking you step by step through an exploration of the way in which mind interferes with the potential beauty of life. As we move closer to the end of our journey together, I want to be able to move more to the positive, in a sense, and not so much in terms of what the negatives are.

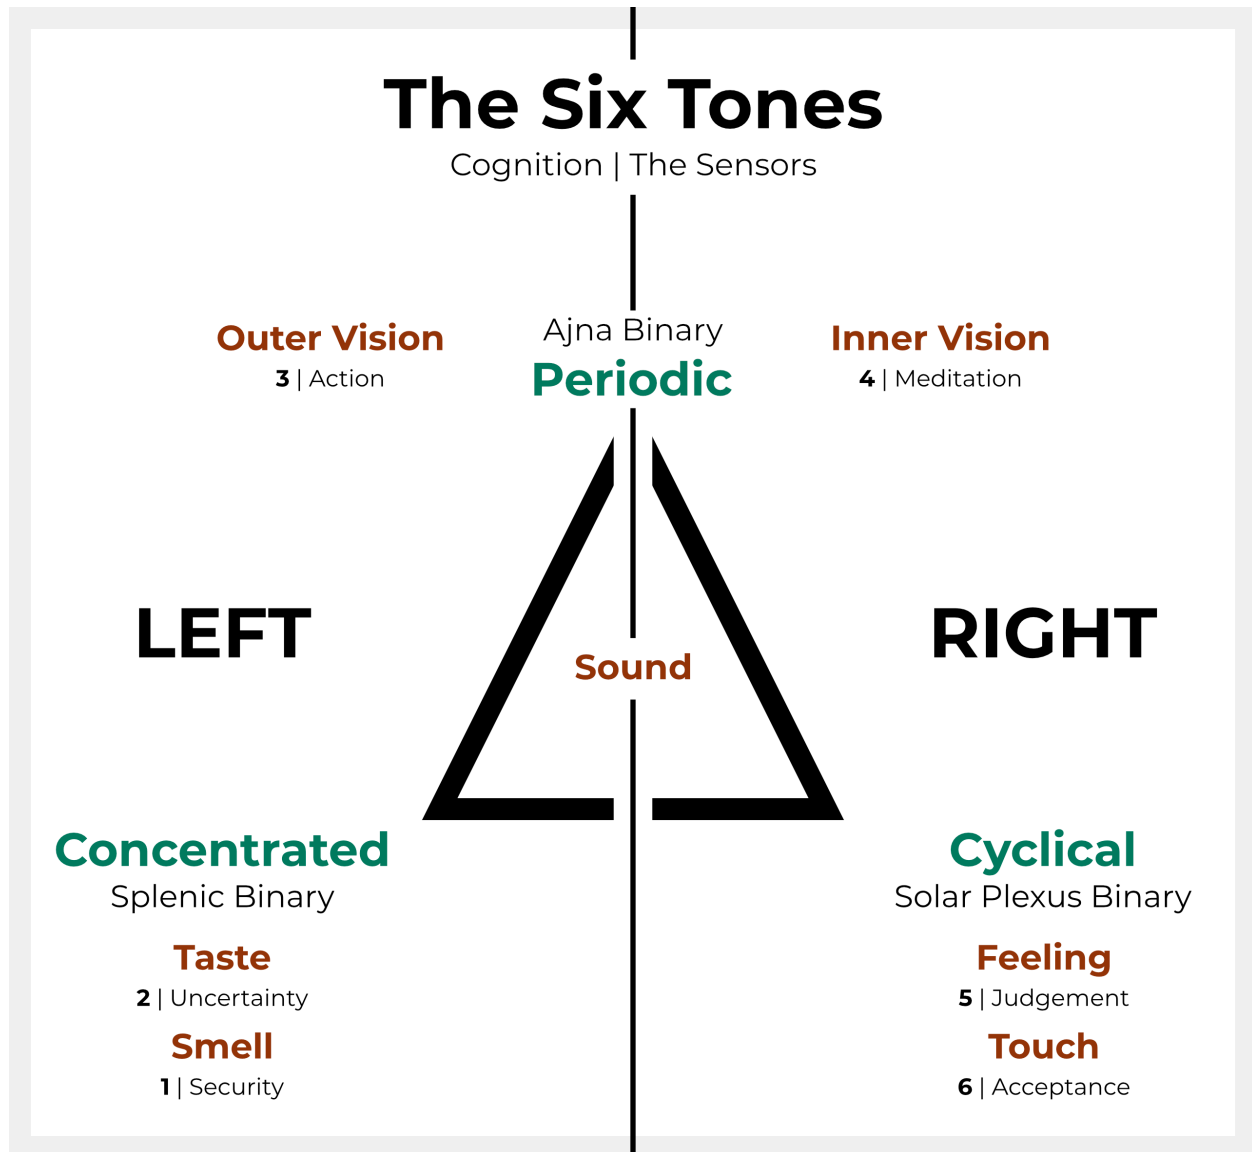

Cognition Potential

One of the things I've been stressing with you is what it means for us to come to grips with what it is to be a nine centered being. And the deepest thing to grasp about what it is to be a nine centered being is the level of cognition that is part of this mutation as a potential.

I don't know how well you can see this because the lights are difficult on the illustration; those of you at home can see this clearer. The illustration that is up here is a Tonal illustration [next page]. Remember my discussion with you yesterday about the nature of Tone, that Tone is the inside of the crystal and the frequency that is there on the inside, this is the cognitive potential.

Seven Sensory Qualities of Our Brain System

I don't know how far I'll go today, but I'm going to begin with the physical side of this because it's particularly important. The first thing to really grasp about Tone is that Tone lays out seven different sensory qualities that are part of our brain system. In fact, it's actually six all connected to one super sense.

That one super sense is what we call acoustic [sound], but it's important to understand that this is the super frequency that is actually the overall holistic frequency of the Tone itself. That frequency can be broken down into its parts. And that frequency gets broken down into six different parts.

I gave you a kind of evolutionary glimpse, this movement that has taken place in our design since Neanderthal. When I talk about Neanderthal, I talk about the Right, when I talk about modern man, I talk about Left, then you come to us and we are Left and Right.

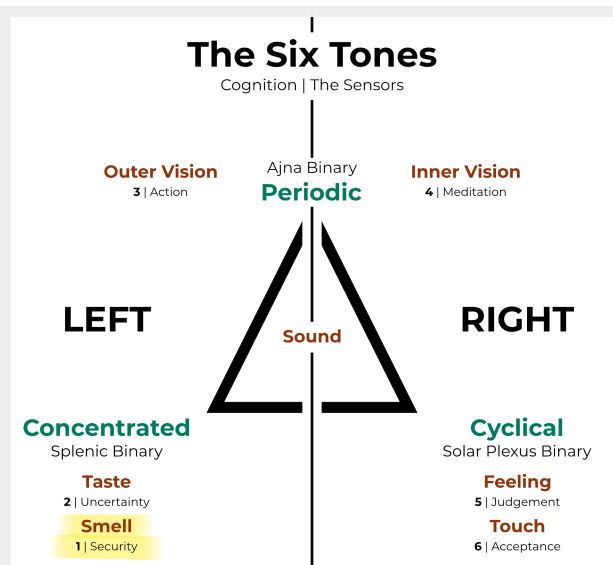

The Tones

So, let's look here Tonally for a moment and remind ourselves what the Left is all about. You can see the Left in the illustration starting at the 1 at the bottom, which is the most fundamental. One of those things to know about numbers in Human Design is that if you're dealing with Tones, Colors, or Lines, you're dealing with a 1 to 6 construct. The 1 always represents the beginning, the foundation, the most primitive. It is the basis. It is where you start.

The 1st Tone: Smell/Nose Breathers

So, if we look at our first basic sense, what we get to see in the 1st Tone is the sense of smell. So, this is the very first foundation of the way in which the Left operates. The Left operates on smell and that smell is rooted in the Spleen, the Splenic binary, which means it's all about survival.

We know this in the animal world. We know, for example, that there are so many mammals that have levels of smell that are 3-D and hallucinogenic. They say a dog, for example, has an ability to take in aroma 40,000 times more intensely than a human. It's hard to imagine what that means. The dog that's sniffing the fire hydrant, they know the person's shoe size; you know what I mean. It's amazing what is there in that information base.

Rooted in the Spleen

So, the first thing to understand about the Left is that it's rooted in the Spleen, and its first primary sense is smell. Think about how impactful smell is. You're not going to have a lover whose breath you cannot stand. You're not going to have a lover whose body you cannot smell. It is deep within us, this discrimination, according to the olfactory system.

But there is something to understand. Not everybody is a nose person. There are some people who are the ultimate nose people, and there are other people where it's not a big deal. My nose, it's not a big deal. There has to be a big fire before I smell smoke; otherwise, I'm not going to smell smoke. But if I have a line of sight, I'll see it, because I'm really good at seeing. But smell is not my thing.

Smell Is the Most Important Sense

Something to understand about the way in which the Left operates is that we're dealing with very primitive sensory systems. The other thing is, if you're somebody that has that 1st Tone on your Design side, Sun/Earth, what that's actually saying to you is this is the most important sense you have. It's more important than all the others. As a matter of fact, if you don't develop that sense, you don't get to take in the information that you need to take in.

Nose Breathing

It's interesting about breathing, the whole breathing business. The breathing business is important if you're Left. It's not like the Right doesn't have to pay attention to breathing, but it really is different. They do not have a strategic approach to it. In the Left there is actually a strategic approach. If you have 1st Tone, you're going to breathe with your nose. If you're a 1st Tone person, and you're breathing with your mouth all the time, you have a problem. And it will get really physical.

There are all of these breath specialists running around telling everybody to breathe through their nose. I hate homogenization. It is so dangerous and cruel. The thing is, if you are a 1st Tone being, if your nose is the story, then work on it.

The most beautiful thing about operating according to your Strategy and Authority and nourishing yourself correctly is what you're doing is feeding the power of that sense to develop, to be enhanced, and to be able to enhance the acuity of that sense. Because that smelling isn't just simply about being able to smell the roses. It's about being able to smell a rat, the smell of success. It is something else. It is deep information that's being taken in at this primary level.

The Tones Point Towards Your Uniqueness

When we're dealing with the Design, we're dealing with the brain system. We're dealing with the physical system. So, these Tones become very important because they point towards your differentiation, points towards your uniqueness.

It's also a signpost. I love signposts. That thing that as you're going along your way, you can see an improvement, you can see your movement in a process. It's important to have. It's good for your courage, keeps your spirit going.

One of the things about your Tonal cognition is that the moment you know what it is, as you watch your process, you will see you're aligning more and more to its power to guide you. Take the example of your Strategy and Authority. Here you are, operating correctly, and in that moment of operating correctly, you make the decision according to whatever your Inner Authority is. That decision is based on your Tonal cognitive capacity.

So, let's say that your nose is so-so, you get so-so information. But if the nose is worked on, that is, if you're continually correct, if you are nourishing yourself correctly, what happens is the nose starts picking up more information. You start getting better intelligence that is guiding the way in which your Inner Authority is operating.

Strategy and Authority Allows Your Physical Cognitive Potential to Work

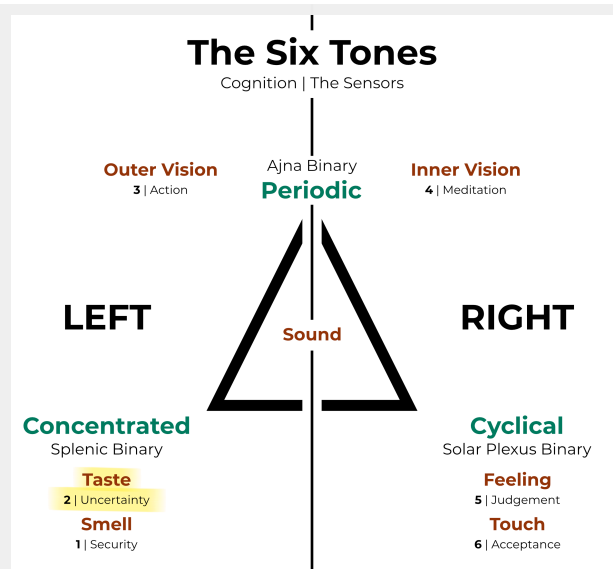

One of the illusions in Design is your Inner Authority is in the BodyGraph. “Oh, I’m emotional.” “It’s in the body; I’m a Generator.” But you have to understand the thing that makes those decisions so correct for you is that you’re allowing the cognition to come through. That’s what happens when you’re following your Strategy and Authority, your physical potential, your physical cognitive potential begins to work for you.

It also means that you’ve been conditioned to rely on senses that are not your thing. So, for example, if you’re somebody that’s relying on your vision when you’re supposed to be a nose person, what happens then is you’re not getting the information that you need in order to be able to guide yourself correctly.

The 2nd Tone: Taste/Mouth Breathers

The 2nd Tone is Taste. These are mouth breathers. It’s somebody like me who always has a cigarette in his hand, mouth breathing all the time. It is incredible how much information you take in with a breath. Whenever somebody starts moving towards me—I’m a 5/1 Manifestor—so when you start moving towards me, the first thing in my head is what do they want. This is the first thing that’s there right away, and then I take a little breath in. That breath in convinces my Spleen one way or another whether to be available or not. And I know it’s just a breath. And in that breath, I’m taking in their whole thing; everything. Be careful around me. You breathe out and I take in your whole life, your sex trip, your problems, the whole thing just comes in.

The thing to understand about this is if when you’re correct and you keep on being correct, what you’re doing is you’re fine tuning your sensory system. And you need to know what it is. That alone will help you.

This thing with Taste is a wonderful thing. I tell people who have this is before you make any decision, before you deal with anybody, take a breath. Just take a breath. “Got you know. I’ve got my answer. I have everything I need.” It’s that simple. What happens to these beings is they don’t trust that. Nobody ever told them that, anyway.

What they trust is that they think they’re going to watch and see it, and hear it, but it’s not them. The only way they’re going to get the information they need is to breathe it in. The more attuned you are—because remember, this is all without mind. Today is “no mind day”; there’s no mind today, there are just Tones vibrating. I may start singing; never mind.

It’s the thing about differentiation that I don’t get because it’s so exciting to find out who you are. We’re a fine tuned instrument; that’s what we’re capable of. And you can see the way in which we take in information. That moment where crisis has come to your life, that moment where you’re trying to figure out how you figure out whatever it is you think you can figure out, those wonderful moments, if you know what your sense is, it’s all different.

Your Sense Does the Research

If you’re operating correctly, the sense will do the research, particularly if you have the 1 and 2. This is the Spleen. It goes (sound) and grabs it all. Now, it can be a little spooky because it doesn’t talk to you about it. It’s not the insanity of mind. It doesn’t carry on these long conversations about what it thinks it thinks it thinks. It simply takes in the information, you get the impulse, whatever that is through your Inner Authority, and it comes out.

Inner Authority Comes from One’s Cognition

But understand where your Inner Authority comes from. It comes from your specific cognition. It’s not that the other things don’t exist; they do. And they’re disproportionally developed. They shouldn’t be that developed. And so much of the development is on the Left side, which is a problem we get to when we get to the Right.

When you look at Tone and its triangle, you have three binaries: Splenic binary, the 1st and 2nd Tone, so you have Smell and Taste, the foundation of protecting the life. Then you have its final expression. That's the 3rd Tone, which is in the Ajna binary. The Ajna binary is where mutation takes place.

The 3rd Tone: Outer Vision

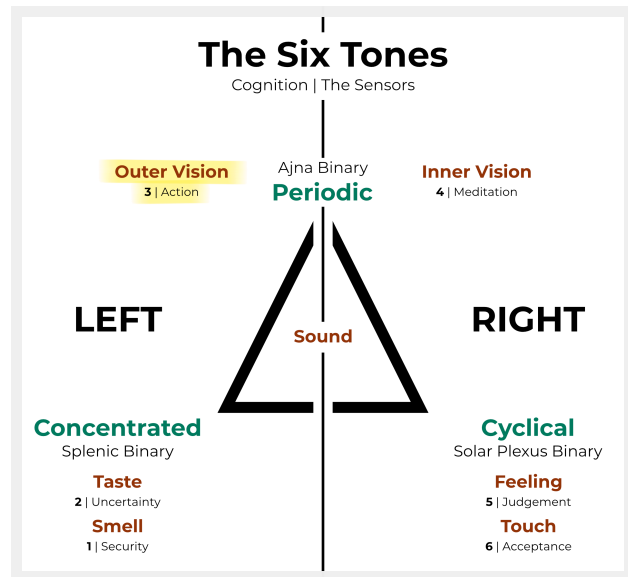

When we're looking at the 3rd and 4th Tones, what we're really looking at is the visual cortex. When we're looking at the 3rd Tone, this is Outer Vision. This was the best the Left could do. And when I say that, I mean the old Left. The 3rd Tone was the end of the line for them, and that end of the line was Outer Vision.

This Outer Vision is an extraordinary thing. The way in which these eyes come forward, this binocular vision that allows us to focus in, allows us to create what is the illusion of the Maia around us, not only to define the Maia, but to be able to operate within the Maia, to plan within the Maia and be totally strategic. It's all in the eyes.

Of course, this movement away from the Spleen to the Ajna is a movement that connects directly to mind. This is where the seven centered being got lost. It got lost in its Outer Vision, deeply connected to its mental system. It began to make up the world, it began to move away from the natural order.

The 3rd Tone Is Deeply Focused

I'm somebody that has the 3rd Tone. So, I'm somebody that looks out at the world. This is my strategic Outer Vision. And everything about looking out in the world this way is that there are things that are missing. It's like the hunter, the hunter is sitting in a blind. That hunter sitting in a blind is waiting for something to come. They're very focused on where they think that thing is going to be. They've got it all set up. They know there is this little place, they know the animal is going to have to come through it.

They're deeply focused. They're so focused that they don't even notice that the animal comes up behind them, because they don't see it. Not only that, they're so focused because if the animal is going to come through here, there is 92 of them six feet away on the other side munching and having a conversation, and they don't even notice because they are deeply focused.

The Left is very impressive because everything about its intelligence is driven down a fine line. You ask somebody who is Left about something that they know—you really don't want to do that, but anyway—they will go on and on. I know; I've been doing it for 21 years. They go on and on, because this is what it is to be Left. They've got their thing.

If somebody comes up to you when you're doing that and they ask you something that you're not focused on, it's like, "I'm over here," and they're going, "No, no, here." Because you're Left, you don't know what anything else is.

You look out in the world of the Left and what we see is specialization. This is a homogenized word. It's a wonderful homogenized word. It's like great minds think alike. It's the same kind of thing, it's very funny. This is the specialization of Left. I only know this; I don't know that.

Do you understand how easy it is to homogenize people who are like that? "I only know this," and the other one says, "Yeah, I know that God's watching." "Really? I didn't know that. I only know this." "Well, I'm telling you."

Nobody knows what's really going on. Everybody has their little slice. And everybody who is Left needs to lean on the others because they themselves don't know. When they're educated, children are immediately streamed strategic. Bring them to their focus. You're an idiot; we're going to teach you to change tires. You're clever, we're going to teach you this. They stream them.

Specialization is the Left's way. It's their way of saying, "I know one thing and I'm stupid about everything else," which is what they don't want to say because it's embarrassing. I had one of the most hilarious experiences in my professional life. Randy Richmond, who many of you know through the radio and otherwise, he is a member of Mensa, which already says something. This is this so-called genius organization.

He got me invited to one of their conventions to give an address about Human Design to all of these blithering geniuses. You've never been in an environment like that your whole life. You had people there that could tell you the most obscure thing and go on about it for hours. But they couldn't tie their shoelaces. It was amazing. It was great minds think alike—they were totally useless.

The Strategic Is Limited

This is the whole thing about the pure strategic. I'm doing some apostate humor because I'm strategic. I look at strategic and I think, "Oh, there's a problem here." There is a deep limitation to what it is to be strategic. So, we end up being controlled by the sources of information and education. It's how the strategic world is controlled. Everybody is forced to go down a focused line—whether you're Left or Right, by the way—so that the program has control over everything.

I used to love the romance of the Renaissance man. I liked that, it's something I feel about myself. There are many different things that I have been able to take in and master in my life. It's wonderful to know many things, because it builds through synthesis all kinds of layers of knowledge.

The Variable Map

I have one part Right, and it happens to be in the perfect place for me, so that I can see in a special way. Without that Rightness, I never would have the ability I have to be able to do this because I would only have my purely narrow focus. When you see the mapping of the 16 possibilities of Variable it's so interesting because it comes out in a magic square and you can see that there is one combination that is all Left, four possibilities of Left. On the other side of that is the four possibilities of Right.

And you see the whole mutative evolutionary process in between [next page]. Because we're not just the extreme. The world that was given to us by the seven centered being is the world that stopped with Outer Vision. It stopped with just being focused. It stopped with being specialized. But we're much more than that.

This is what this time is all about. This awareness of what we are, the uniqueness of what we are as a species is that it is reflected not in the Left that remains, but in the Right that has opened up.

The Right Side of the Tonal Structure: A Mutation

When we go to the Right side of the Tonal structure, we deal with a mutation. It is the mutation. It's a mutation that took place in the visual cortex in 1781. Think about the difference between the 3rd Tone, which is Outer Vision, and the 4th Tone, which is Inner Vision.

The Outer Vision Only Remembers What Is Focused On

Now, if you're looking at the way in which the visual cortex operates, the Left, the Outer Vision, looks out in the world. It focuses on something. It brings that focus in and stores anything connected to that focus; nothing more, nothing less.

So, that's the kind of person that when they go to a resort and they happen to like a certain place where they sit every day in a chair that's pointed in the same direction, and you ask them what it was like there, that's what they describe. They didn't see anything else. That's where their focus was and that was what they have stored because that's what their focus is.

The thing about Left beings is they appear to have tremendous memory when you're talking to them about something they know, something they are focused on. But if it's not something they're focused on they're always looking for it. "Oh, I can't remember," because what they remember is connected in a line to what they see on the outside and they bring in. And that means not simply how they see it visually, but the context that it's in as they take it in.

The Mutation Puts the Focus on the Inside

Then we get the mutation. The mutation is fascinating, because basically what the mutation does is that it takes the focus from the outside and puts the focus inside. What I mean by that is that visual cortex of the Right being simply takes in visual information. It does not focus.

The Right Does Not Focus

This is one of the problems. I assume that people who are Right have more problems with their eyes than people that are left because of the way they were conditioned. The whole thing to understand about the Right visual cortex is that it's intended to simply absorb what is there visually, and then what happens through this mutation is that it has a way of storing all of it. It's focused on the storage.

Because there is no focus on the out, there is no memory line. It's not there. So, they go to the resort, they take everything in, they within themselves don't really remember anything until somebody asks them, "What was it like?" and all of a sudden, it's all there. As a matter of fact, to the point of boredom, because in their extreme they can give you details you would not want to hear. If you ask them, check the time, give them a little. It's the magic of what it is to be Right.

The Dilemma of the Right Being Trained to Focus

This is immediately a dilemma. This is where the mutation begins. We have had children coming into the world since 1781 that half of all these children being born are going to have a Right system in one way or another. These children are not trained to be Right, because nobody knows what that is. They're trained to be strategic because that is the homogenized way.

Think about these children that have a visual capacity to simply take in and everybody is trying to get them to focus on the outside. The worst example is the school system because the Right child takes everything in, but they don't take it in the way in which the strategic learning process has been established. Education is designed for the strategic. So, you're taught focus by focus by focus, which is totally different from the way in which the Right is intended to learn.

One of the things I'm looking forward to in the Center for Human Differentiation is to be able to provide differentiation for those that are Left and who are Right because the techniques for transformation are so different. Think about that Inner Vision person. I gave you the example of the mouth breather, the 2nd Tone, somebody is coming towards you, take a breath, breathe them in.

The 4th Tone: Inner Vision/ Close Your Eyes

Now, think about the person who has Inner Vision. If you have Inner Vision and you see somebody coming towards you, close your eyes. Even if it's just a for a moment, close your eyes. The moment you close your eyes, you frame all the information you need about them. Everything you've visually taken in—it's sort of like the camera running and you stop the camera and close your eyes, you get a whole review of the clip. Everything is just rolling there. It's just there; you catch the whole thing. It's inner; Inner Vision.

Only the Left Should Study

But nobody on the Right is trained that way. My eldest son is Right. And of course, he's in a strategic school system. So, I tell him not to study because study is Left. This is what the Left does. The Left has to study. Do you know why? It's because it focuses on one thing, so there are a lot of things it doesn't know.

So, it needs to see the things it doesn't know and then cover those things and then it's ready. But the Right can't study, it doesn't know what to study. It will study everything because it's so uncomfortable, so unsure of itself because it doesn't have this recall or grasp. I tell him what to do: Pay absolute attention while you're learning, that's all.

The Right Needs to Pay Attention While Learning

This is the responsibility of those of you that are here that are Right. You bring as full attention as you can to this process. That means, don't make notes, don't type on a computer. Be focused in the sense that you're just absorbing. Just absorb, take it in and let go. That's how you function as somebody who is Right.

The Right Has Nothing to do with Survival

We're not trained that way. All those beings that come into the world that are Right are deeply insecure, because when you move over to the Right side, it has nothing to do with survival. It's as if the Right side is saying, "Aren't you following your Strategy and Authority?"

It's like, "Please, give us some protection here, we've got other stuff to do." Because the Right cannot, is not equipped to deal with survival. It is not. That's why all the children that are born Right, all the adults that are Right are scrambling all the time full of fear pretending to be strategic and having this horrendous process as a being.

Close Eyes Before Eating

We have a huge responsibility with this knowledge, to be able to transform to change the way in which human beings learn, so you can take things in according to your nature, that you can take advantage of what is there for you. That person that has the Inner Vision and they're about to put food in their mouth, they close their eyes. It's magic. Their entire system is informed instantly. The digestive system is ready. It's all they have to do.

The Right Takes in Without Agenda

But what you see with beings who have 4th Tone is they're always looking for something. And they're not here to be doing that. Only the Left is designed to be constantly looking for something. The Right is just here to take in with no agenda. When you think about that, it's very frightening. We live in an inherited—this world of ours, the homogenization, the way it operates is all strategic. It's all old, seven centered strategic stuck at Outer Vision. And everybody who is Right suffers because of it.

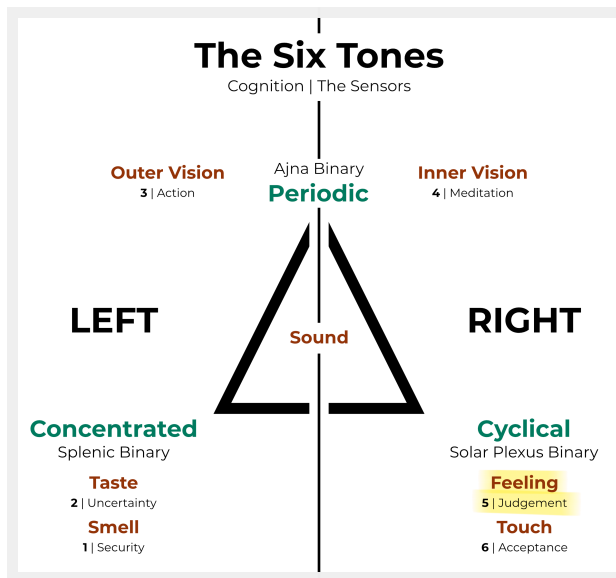

And if we don't get this sensory system out, we don't fulfill the potential of what the cognition is in us. We've had thousands of years to work on 1, 2, 3. We're a couple of hundred years into 4, 5 and 6, and we're not doing very well. This is just barely the beginning.

The Final Binary: The Solar Plexus

Then it gets really special because it leaves the mind, it leaves the Ajna and we enter into the final binary of the Tonal construct. That final binary is the Solar Plexus binary where the mutation is taking place, where the transformation is taking place in the Solar Plexus System.

The 5th Tone: Feeling

When we come to the 5th and 6th Tones, as I've mentioned to my students many times, it sounds like science fiction. There is no way to escape it because it's so different from the way in which we take in information. Take the example of the 5th Tone. The 5th Tone is the Tone of Feeling. But don't misunderstand that and don't take that too literally in the emotional sense, because this is a potential of cognition that has nothing to do with waves.

But what it is is the ability to read frequency, electromagnetic fields, auras. It is the ability to take in information from auric contact with somebody at a level that is much more profound than what we take in in a focused way on the Left side. And we don't know what that means.

We have very limited, very primitive sensory access on the Left side. It's very basic; smell, taste, vision. It's all the basic stuff. The moment we get over to the Right side it gets like Twilight music (from the TV show Twilight Zone), because it is really different. The thing to understand is that these sensory systems that are emerging out of the Right are carrying more information because the Left is all about focusing. You focus on the smell, you focus on the taste, you focus on the vision. You go to the Right and everything (sound of sucking in air) is always taking in.

Takes in a Density of Information

What I notice about my perspective is that when I look at anything, I'm always seeing layers. It's been like that since I was a little boy. I would get on a bus and I would see people as chess pieces, and I would start moving them. There are all these layers. Because the Right sees in a very strange way. It's not Left, there's no focus. There is enormous information in it. And it is information that is feeding the brain system that provides the platform for the self-reflected consciousness.

Deeply Sensitive to Electromagnetic Fields

Think about what that means. Relative to a Right being, I have a very crude understanding of aura. I have three open motors, so I can be very sensitive to the frequency of the connection, but that is really brute, primitive surface. If an emotional person is pissed, I can pick it up. If they're relatively happy, rare as rare can be, I can pick it up. But it's like really brute surface. And I'm not getting anything more than, "They're pissed." That's the level of it, no matter how much I know about stuff. This is a physical thing. This is the information I'm getting. I'm not getting any more that I know of.

But then you take somebody who is Right, who is 5th Tone, you walk into their aura, and they say, "By the way, you forgot to make your bank deposit." They step into your aura and they know just about everything about you. The thing that is so odd about all of this is they don't know that they know that. Not only do they not know that they know that, they have not been practicing.

Think about what that means. You've got somebody who has the 5th Tone, which means they have a brain system that is deeply sensitive to electromagnetic fields, deeply sensitive to auras. And not just simply sensitive in that it recognizes them in the brute way that I do, it takes them in whole, taking in information. That information is feeding the brain system. It is providing the brain system with a vast spectrum of data about that person.

Of course, if you're operating correctly, if you get to the place where we will be tomorrow when we talk about Outer Authority, knowing that your Outer Authority actually exists, and that person has walked into your aura and they say to you, "You know I'm really having a bad day," you can tell them exactly why, precisely what happened and you can help them resolve the situation. The Right takes in everything.

Savants

The only dilemma for the Right is it has no control over the library. I collect savants. The world now is filled with many extraordinary savants, these very strange people who have some kind of brain damage and out of that brain damage comes some kind of miracle. My favorite is one that is in Denver, Colorado. He's a very sweet looking guy. A man in his 40s, basically a Personality of a 12 or 13 year old. He's a memory savant.

He is my classic example of a Right person. He asked for permission about 15 years ago to be able to spend his days in the library, and eventually the library took him on and looks after him. He needs a modest amount of care, but nonetheless.

He spends his days in the library. What he does is he takes books out of the library and goes through each page like this—and it's a big library, hundreds of thousands of books. So, you come into the library and you go up to him and you quote a line from any book. He will go get the book for you, he knows what page it was on. Unless you ask him, he doesn't know. He just takes it in.

The Right Expresses Its Depth through Communion

The End of the Cross of Planning

I don't think that the technological world that we are so excited with now is going to last that long because I know that the background frequency, the Cross of Global Planning, will move away in 2027 and we're going to move into a 400 year cycle that is going to be very demanding on individual survival.

It means we're going to move away from communal support systems and collective infrastructures to be able to look after us. Part of why this knowledge exists is to get people their own unique authority so they can navigate in a world that will not as supportive as this one is right now.

Something to understand is that the Left alone cannot survive in such a world. Their focus leaves them vulnerable. And the only way that the richness of the information pool that we have can be maintained is through the Right. Because it is the Right that takes it all in, and those of us who are Left need to be able to access it from the Right. There is an incredible bargain inherent in Leftness and Rightness.

The Left has great capacity to survive. It can help the Right survive. But in return, its life is enriched by what the Right knows and what the Left cannot know. This is a bond that is very special that ultimately is one that needs to be nurtured and developed because the Right is the only place where truly we have resources that are so profound.

One of my favorite writers when I was in my 20s was Jorge Luis Borges, the Argentine short story writer. He wrote an incredible story called Funes the Memorious, about a man who suddenly discovered he had absolutely perfect memory. He could remember every blade of grass. He was going nuts. He didn't want to remember all of that after a while. It was like, who needs this.

The Right Stores Everything

I want you to understand what it means to be Right. We seem to measure these boxes because of their relative size. The capacity of this box as far as we know in quantum physics is infinite. You can keep storing information in this box endlessly. If you're Right, every second, every breath, every moment of every day that you are conscious it is stored in you, every moment from before birth, from the moment your Personality Crystal came into the womb it is all there, everything, moment by moment.

You just want to go in there and run the film back because it's all there. Somebody like me who is Left, I look at that and think, "Wow, that would be really cool." It's everything. Our memories are so limited. Our memories are tied to strategic focus. There are these huge deep resources of memory. All we have to do tap into them. All you have to do is allow yourself to allow all of that to come in and not block it off, not block it off by being conditioned, by being homogenized.

Nobody is suffering more on this plane than the Right. I know that. There is no greater revolution in this knowledge than the understanding beyond Inner Authority that there is such a thing as Leftness and Rightness when it comes to way in which the brain/mind system operates. And it's the most important knowledge we have in the transformation of our consciousness.

I can't wake up Left and Right the same way. There is no way; they are different. For me, I look at the Right in the same way I always looked at Generators. My mouth drops, my ten 1st Lines of wonder come in, and I look at that and think, "Wow, how amazing that is."

Because human beings don't like themselves, they don't think that they're really intelligent even when they are, and they have no idea what they've taken in, they have no idea how deep they are. There are so many Right beings who are feeling so inferior intellectually, no matter how intelligent they are. They are so uncomfortable. Because the way intelligence seems to operate is through the strategic game.

You go to somebody who is Right and ask them, "What is your specialty?" "Am I supposed to have a specialty? What is it? Could you help me? I don't know what it is. I have a hard time holding onto anything it seems. Why do you want specialty from me? I don't do special." This is the Right. And they're under this incredible pressure to do 'special.' "I want you to focus now."

You have to think this is all physical, it's not just mental. You've got a visual system that's mutated, that's designed to only take in and you're screwing up your eyeballs trying to focus. Because everybody is telling you you're supposed to be focusing. And it's like, "I normally just see a big fuzz." And they say, "You have eye problems."

The Brown Study of the Right

The classic Right is the brown study. Do you know the brown study? This is this non-focused stare. You see that a lot in Ibiza because we use a lot of drugs here; many, many artificial brown studies. But it gives you a flavor. Everybody thinks they have a problem, and nobody understands that they're doing a better job than the CIA could ever imagine. What they take in, the inside information—you don't want to walk by them when they're looking like that.

The Right are Sick Physically and Mentally

You're a multidimensional information feed going by and they're laughing at you as you're moving down the street. I want to see the Right healthy because they're not. They're sick. They're sick physically, they're sick mentally. They're deeply neurotic, uncomfortable and unhappy.

The Traps of History

So much of it is simply being conditioned to the Left and that's not who they are. And yet, everything in life is based on this. This is my whole thing about the traps of history, what it means to understand that we have to see it differently. We have to understand that the old model is not our model. And this is not science fiction; it's fact. It's here, it's now, it's in you, and nobody has ever brought it out of you.

If you're going to love yourself as a being who is Right, you have to understand how deep you are. You are the river. That's really what you are. We come to the dilemma of where you're looking and where are you. Are you taking in what's right for you to take in so that others will benefit? Everybody knows that if they go into that library that that little guy will never fail to find the book they need, the quote they're looking for, the security that is there and that there is a source.

A New Form of Awareness

This is the only way that the Right can pay for existence. Let me give it to you another way. Let me give you an evolutionary glimpse. We're moving towards 2027. 2027 is a mutation that is taking place in the Solar Plexus System and this mutation is about the release of a new form of awareness.

The Rave

It is not a form of awareness that will ever fully be ours. There is a mutation that is coming into the world, the next branch of this family of ours, the Raves. Raves are not something you would necessarily be comfortable with at all, any more than I think you'd be comfortable with Cro-Magnon.

They're not going to appear to be either healthy or mentally together. They will look like severe autism. There will be a poor ability to be able to see. There will be very weak muscular capacity. These are all kinds of things that has nothing to do with us. And everything about the Rave is that the Rave is intended to be the next step in the consciousness evolution because Raves are designed to come together and bond through a Penta, a Penta that is conscious.

In other words, the Raves that are going to emerge are going to give up their self. It's one of the reasons I don't like them, or the idea of them, because I'm Homo Sapiens in Transitus. I know that for us, for our kind, that the only thing that we can do is fulfill the potential of our identity.

The Right Needs Support

Yet, at the same time we have to understand that those beings amongst us who are carrying the Right, they don't have the same power to be able to hold on to their unique identity. They need support. They are ready to give up their identity to the other. In the same way that they are ready to serve the other with the knowledge that they carry within them.

In other words, the Left learns things for its own potential. The Right learns things for anyone's potential. It's very different. And we have these Right beings, they're here now. Nobody recognizes them, treats them correctly, or teaches them how to live as themselves.

One of the most important things we do in our work, at the highest levels in Design, is to deal with this phenomena, both from the body side and from the mental side, so that we can begin, particularly with those that are Right, to be able to work with them as deeply as we can, as quickly as we can because they're dealing with huge levels of homogenization. And that homogenization needs to be dealt with.

If you're strategic, if you're Left, all you need is Strategy and Authority. As long as it's your focus, are you going to get to where you need to get to. That's your focus, you go. But the Right doesn't have a focus. It's different for them.

Inner Authority Is the Answer

The same thing that saves the Left, saves the Right. At the very core of this knowledge it's always the same thing. It's Inner Authority. It's Inner Authority that is the answer. If you are Right, you need to protect yourself. First and foremost, in your life you need to be secure. The only way you're going to be secure is through your Inner Authority. There is no other way.

And as a being that's Right, the moment you can find security, you can give up on strategy. You can let go of the Left. You can let go of its influence over you because its influence has been that you're not equipped, that you have to learn to focus to survive, and it's a lie. A terrible lie.

All you need is your Inner Authority. You will survive. And beyond that, you have to begin to nurture what it is that you are. You need to be able to see the richness of your process. You need to distinguish yourself from history to carry the power of what it is to be a new being. It's in the hands of the Right. They're the ones who carry all the magic.

I can't end this without getting to the real juicy science fiction. As I said, my focus today is not on the level of suffering and the discomfort and the problems of what it is to be homogenized, so that Rightness is something that doesn't emerge.

I want you to get a sense of what's possible. I also want you to understand that if you are Right, how important this knowledge is for you in order to be able to release you from an enormous burden in your life, about the way you take in knowledge, about the level of intelligence that you actually have, about the potential of your contribution to society. It takes a whole new look at yourself.

Every Human Has Unique Gifts

My interest is always to bring you back to the beauty of what it is to be you. It's not like Right is better than Left, or anything else. That's not what my story is about. It's about looking and seeing every single human being has very special gifts. And for us to be able to see as nine centered beings—because we do have a map—that we can really exploit the fact that we have unique capacities, that we can begin to accept them, that we can begin to work to see them realized. That we can begin to enjoy the potential that's there for us cognitively speaking.

The 5th Tone that we looked at, this deep sensitivity to the auric field, to the electromagnetic field, is the beginning of understanding that there is a new information base in terms of the way in which the experience of life can be assessed. We're so used to the Left. This is the way we make up our minds: the smell, the taste, the vision. This is the way we control the Maia that we look at, the way we approach the Maia, because this is what we're used to understanding as our information source. This is where we're getting the data we think.

But there is this whole new level of potential that is there in terms of the information that's available, and the depth of that information. Because that information is going to be available to the brain system which means it's going to be there as a foundation for the awareness. It means there is a possibility for the human mind to go far beyond in terms of its ability to be able to access the experience of life far beyond anything we understand now, because we have been deeply limited in a sensory way.

Important for Children Who Are Right to Understand Their Potential

These children in the world who are Right are walking treasures, and they don't know it. It was interesting at the break, Viviana said to me that it would be a good idea to once again to teach children. I taught a class for kids a number of years ago here in Ibiza at the Event. I'm going to do that next year. One for Left children and one for Right children. So, bring your children and I'll spend some time with them.

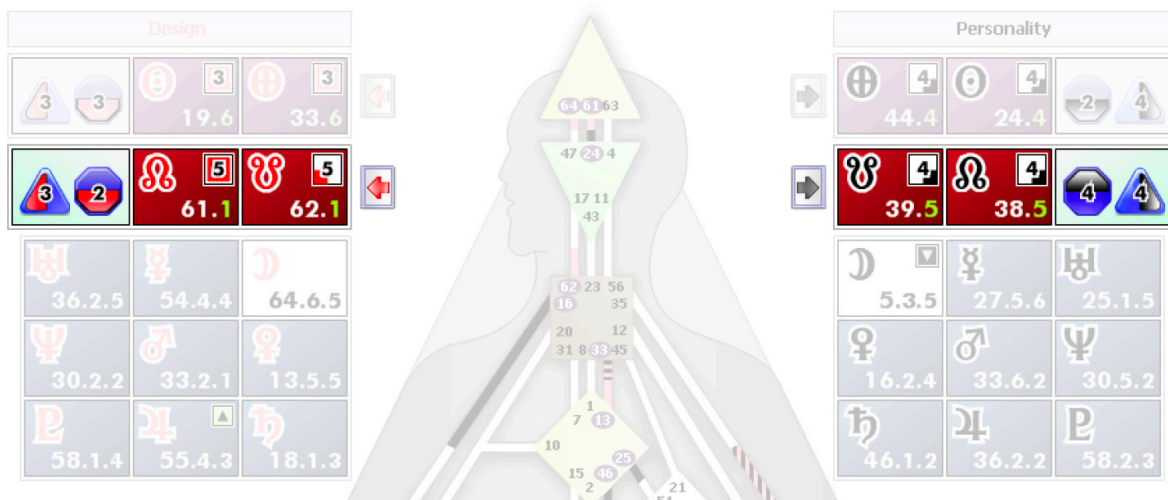

It is so important for children who are Right to understand how deep and profound they are, to begin to enjoy it, to begin to enjoy that you've got something. And all you literally need to do is just to work with it. It will emerge. It's there. You've got to trust it. 'Trust,' I keep on going back to this word. It's so hard for human beings to trust in themselves. The not-self can't do it. A gift of this knowledge is that we can trust.

It's only then you begin to get this sense of your real worth, so that you don't feel there is something missing, that you don't feel there is a hole there that has to be filled by somebody else. That you're whole within yourself, and that you can appreciate who you are as a being.

It's so difficult for the Right. The Left can always brag. "I've got this focus; I know this stuff. Aren't I great? I've got it." The Right can't do that. The Right can't stand up and say, "I've taken everything in." They don't do that; it's not what they're about. And yet at the same time, they need to know that that is what they do. They have a resource. They have this depth that's within that's unbelievable and all it needs is to be tapped.

The Need to be in the Right Place

Yesterday I gave you a bit of a look at the Nodes. The Nodes are really something rather spectacular. Because what they do is open up an opportunity for us to understand something that is so profound, particularly for those that are Right. If everything about your life as a Right being is what you take in, then you'd better be in the right place. You have to be in the right place.

The Nodes

Source: Maia Mechanics Imaging \(MMI\) | (Advanced Imaging (AI) Extension Module)

Again, this is all about the vehicle, Inner Authority. You don't have to do anything with your mind. You have to allow this to come out of you. The Nodes says something that is so different from the Sun/Earth. The Sun/Earth says, "Me, me, me, me," and the Nodes say, "Who are you? Why are you here in front of me? Are we supposed to be doing something now?"

The Nodes Align Our Movement in the World

Because the Nodes align us to our movement in the world. It is through our Nodes that we meet those that are correct for us. It is along your Nodal path where everybody that's going to be important for you are. If you're out on some not-self detour and you're a Right being, you're in the wrong place, you're taking in the wrong people, and you've got all this enormous depth of useless information.

Your Inner Authority Guides You

You can't be in the right place if you don't follow your Inner Authority. It's the only thing that gets you there. And if you're somebody that's Right, you have to see that the moment that you're aligned to what is correct for you is the moment that what you're taking in is really useful, important, and valuable.

Most human beings have no way of recognizing their own intelligence other than through a homogenized system based on comparison. We have to introduce a whole new level of what intelligence is, because the way intelligence is displayed between Left and Right is totally different. They cannot be measured in the same way. They're not the same at all.

And we still do not have language to describe what we're taking in at this new sensory level. That person with 5th Tone that steps into your aura that gets all this information may not have a language to get it out. They don't have our language. We talk about things in a way in which we share the mechanics. They don't know the language.

I've been a teacher all my life. I started teaching when I was very young, and I've taught in every kind of school system. And I look out there and see that nobody has been educated properly forever. It's so obvious to me now how different the process should be. It is only now that I see that there is this unbelievable potential that is available, a huge resource. And it has to be nurtured.

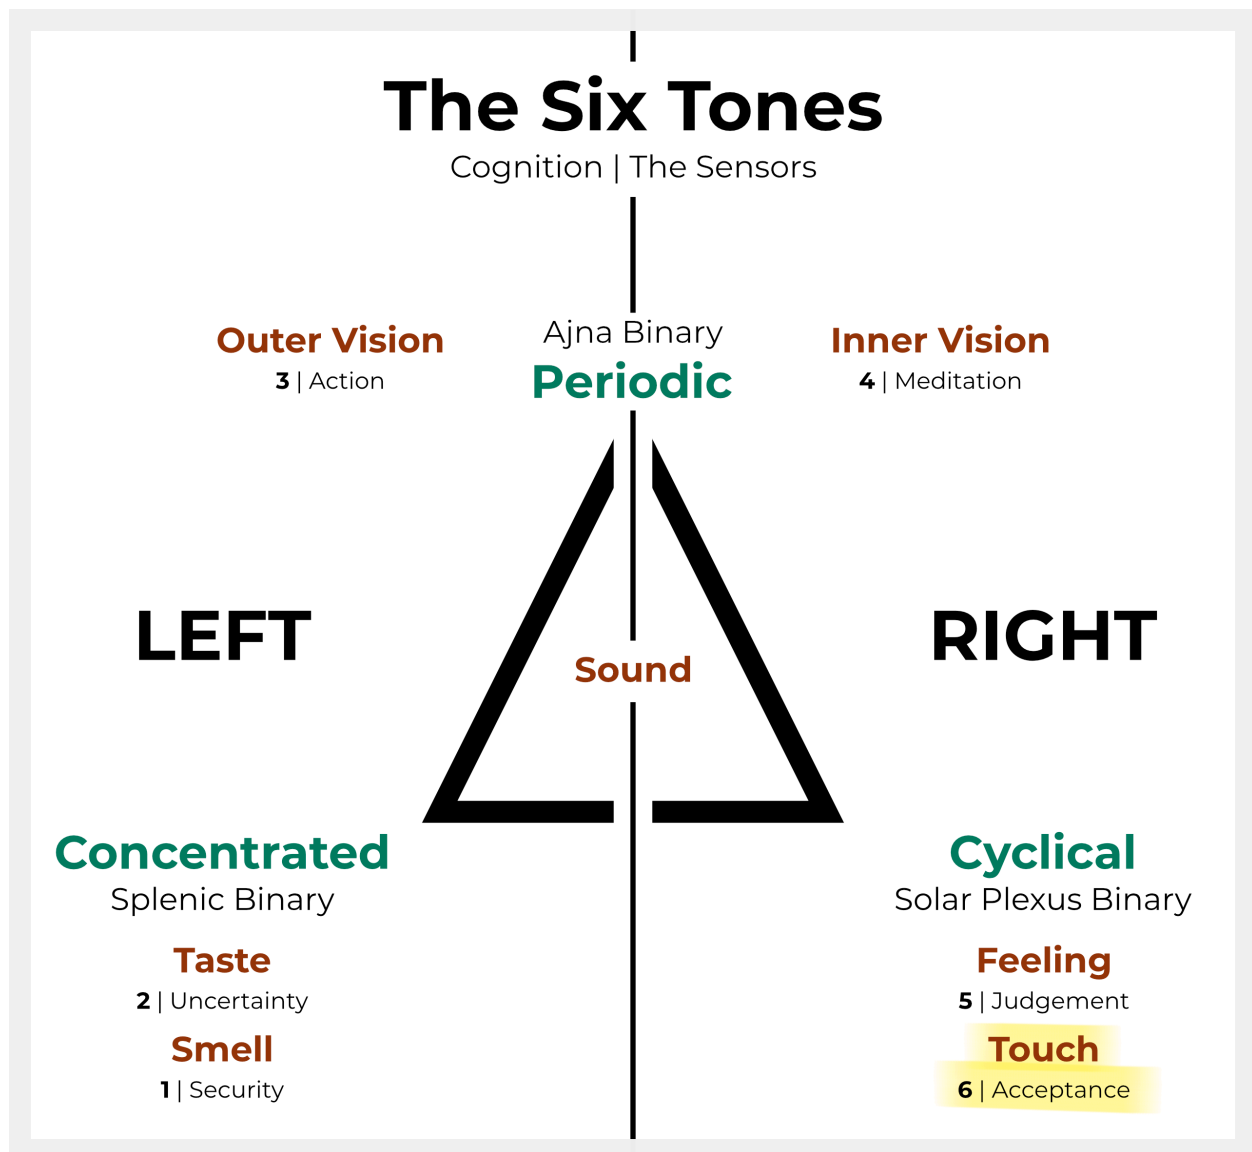

Humans Need to be Taught Who They Are

I know that human beings have to be taught to read and write, but they have to be taught who they are. They have to be nurtured for what they are. They have to be raised correctly. They have to be respected for the intelligence that they have. Do you know what parents do to a Right child that doesn't do well in school? They torture them. They lose the respect of their parents. The parents don't think they're smart. It's embarrassing. They don't do well in school, they're not interested.

They end up in therapies, with drugs; you name it. These poor children, there was nothing wrong with them. Nobody understood them, nobody could see them, nobody could help them. Parents aren't naturally evil, after all we do want the best for our children.

The 6th Tone: Touch

Let's get to the 6, which is magic: Touch. It sounds kind of mundane, Touch. When I think about the Touch that's possible here, we have this image in the new age of this concept of the laying on of hands. Those people that can heal you with their hands. Those people that can transform you with their hands. These beings have a cognition unlike anything else we've seen.

Understand as what we are as humans, we can begin to experience some of this, because it's the evolutionary track. But we're talking about a level of sensitivity and information that is, as I said, the only language we have for it is science fiction. We don't have any other language. This is the kind of person who puts their hand on you and knows you. I put my hand on somebody and I know if they're hot or cold. What the hell do I know? It's soft skin, nice; what do you know. These beings put their hand on you, and they know everything.

But it's more than that. The Solar Plexus is an incredible thing. We're only beginning to see the magic of the Solar Plexus unfold. What we know about the Solar Plexus is that through the wave motion, what we have lived through with the development of the Solar Plexus in its evolution, is that the emotional system is something very unusual, because the emotional system puts its thing out. It's not just what's going on inside the emotional being, but it's the fact that the emotional being is putting all that information out.

Splenic people don't do that. I look at emotional people and I think, "Ah, your kidneys are hanging out." Us unemotional Splenic people would never put their kidney on the outside of our body. How do you do that? They put it out.

The Ability to Manipulate the Aura

They have to think about what that means when you're talking about the cognitive potential that's rooted here in the Right in the 5th and 6th Tones. It's not just simply a matter of being able to grasp the content in the aura, but it's the ability to manipulate the aura. It's not just the ability through tactile sensitivity to pick up enormous information, but to put information in.

Theoretically somebody who has perfected the 6th Tone consciousness can put their hand on a turned-off computer and pass the information to their data stick. Now, I know that sounds absurd, but I know that it's not. I know what's lying there in the 5th and 6th Tones is really something that is out of this world different. It's just different. It is different in its density, in its quality.

It is moving away from us. It's moving towards the future where we no longer exist. We are now on the short stick. Our time is up. It doesn't mean it's up tomorrow. There's about 1300 years left. But basically speaking, the cooking is done. It's over. And every day we lose fertility. Every day we lose our power to what's coming. Every day there are children coming into the world who are Right in which the whole pressure of the future is being pressed on them. Unfortunately, many of these children are autistic because the time isn't right yet. And many of the males that carry the mutation that can lead to the birth of a Rave are dying of prostate cancer, because the time isn't right yet.

You Have to Care About Yourself

But the time is around the corner. It's 19 years. In evolutionary time it's already here; literally it's already here. You have to understand something about the program. The program does not care about you, any more than your genes don't care about you. If you don't care about you, nothing will. You have to care about yourself. You have to understand that this program and the way in which this program moves is saying this is the end of your story. We gave this crazy guy all this information just so you can be ready, and that's the end of the story.

At the end of the story you get everything. I know because I was in the garden in the beginning, I was the reptilian one. No flesh on this bone. "I've got this apple for you to start you on this journey on the tree of knowledge." Oh, what a journey. It's over. I'll tell you about that on Monday. It's over, this is it; we're back to the beginning that's our end. Here is our window.

The BodyGraph: The Tree of Knowledge

What it's saying is that you've got everything now. You have it all. You don't have to go seeking the tree of knowledge. I've given it to you. You look at the BodyGraph, there's the tree of knowledge. It's right there. It's the most incredible glyph that any human being has ever been able to see. It's got everything in it. There isn't anything that isn't there for you. Everything about what it is to exist on this plane to a detail that's unbelievable.

You have to understand they do not give you this knowledge to start, they give you a little apple when you start. At the beginning of the movie they say, "Here, try this. Go forth and multiply. Learn all about it. Now go out there and do it, let's see how far you get." They didn't tell them in the garden, they didn't say to them, "Look, don't worry. If you don't get it, in the end, we'll tell you anyway.” Because it wouldn’t have been any fun, and it’s really nice to throw them out in the cold and see what they can do.

We’re Here to Express the Beauty of Humanness

This is end-knowledge. We’re here to close the door, to leave with grace. We’re here to express the beauty of this whole phenomena. For me it’s just serendipitous. If I think seriously about what all this is, I just begin to giggle. Because it’s such a grand hallucination. I don’t need to wake up at all; just take it in. What a trip.

We don’t have to be blind, ignorant, fools, victims, nobody’s lap dog, nobody’s sheep. We’re not here to be lost. We’re not here to wander around dumbly trying to figure out what the hell is going on. We don’t even have to worry about our survival. Can you imagine a bioform? When they went out of the garden, man were they ever at risk. We’ve been given everything.

Go Radical and Hold On

It’s what I find so fantastic. It’s like hey, what’s your problem, we’ve got it. Now what we have to do is just live it, and we don’t do that for anybody else. You can’t do this for somebody else. You do it for yourself. You do it so you can see whether it’s true. Is it true? Is this guy conning me? Is it really true? Can it really be like that? Yes, it can. Go radical, give up the bullshit. Start your experiment and hold on for dear life. It’s the only way to go.

It’s like getting on a rollercoaster. It’s the way it goes. Hold on; don’t let go. Because you’ll get there, but oh boy, you’ve got to just do it because if you don’t do it, it doesn’t matter what I teach you. You have to understand it’s just mental stuff. You have to turn it into your life. It’s your life. It’s the way you live and breathe and love. It’s every moment of every day. It goes fast.

Next week I turn 60. It’s like wow, it went fast. It’s like whoosh, and it’s gone. And you don’t want to get to that place where the whoosh is over, and nothing has happened. Oh, what a drag. It means you have to get on the rollercoaster. It means you’ve got to let go of everything that you think you have to hold on to; all of it. And you can be secretive. You don’t have to tell anybody. You don’t have to tell your lover that you’ve let go. They may not get it. You don’t have to tell them; but you let go of them. You hold on to you.

Freedom from Dependency

It is only when we are free of dependency that we are free. This is freedom. “I love you; I do not need you.” Oh, freedom. Because the moment you need them, the moment you have to have that reflection, that mirror, you’re lost. The moment that somebody else has to measure you, you’re lost. The moment it’s important how somebody measures you, it’s lost. It’s just lost.

I don’t care. It doesn’t matter what people think. Everybody thinks, what am I going to do? Make a trip out of thinking. Let them think; I don’t care what they think. I care what I live. It wouldn’t have mattered to me if nobody cared and nobody liked it.

My first professional night in Human Design in Zurich, Switzerland, we had put up big, huge posters all over town. Nobody knew who I was, what Human Design was, just these huge posters all over town. My coordinator had rented a hall that the Rolling Stones could have used. 8,000 seats—a huge place. I arrived there—do you know the last man on earth movies? This is what it felt like, a last man on earth movie. I walk into this place and it was so dead I was happy there was dust. Anything for an audience.

It’s 10 minutes to the hour and my coordinator says to me, “I don’t think anybody is coming.” And I said, “Well, we’ll see.” Five minutes to the hour, three people walk in. It was like a miracle. I actually think they were lost and went up the wrong stairs, but it looked interesting. It was very funny. These three people come to the front row. There are two women and a man. The two women sit one seat apart from each other. The man comes around to sit in the seat in between, looks at me, misses the chair and falls on the woman on the left.

I’m thinking, “This is going to be my career. This is what I’m going to do for a living, right?” So, I wait for him to get up and sit down. I did a one hour lecture. It was like this is what you do. You live your life. And living your life means you don’t do anything.

Inner Authority: Do Without Doing

People don't understand that about Inner Authority. Inner Authority means you never have to do anything again as long as you live. Now, you don't understand that, do you? But it's true. The Druids knew this. They said: Do without doing and everything gets done. And people listen to that and think the Druids were crazy. What does that mean?

The mind wants to do, but the doing gets done. It has nothing to do with the mind. All the mind can actually do is try to figure out what's happening, which it doesn't always do very well. But the doing gets done. When you're in your Inner Authority, you're simply alive. Most people don't live in their aliveness. They're either looking over their shoulder or they're looking down the road. They don't live in this.

This is the way in which your life unfolds. People are forever saying to me, "Oh Ra, you did a great job. All this hard work all these years." I think they're crazy because that's not what my life is. I wasn't doing anything. I was in a box that was moving and talking to people, and I was watching. I wasn't in charge of it, what I said, when I said it, where I said it, how I said it.

Living Without Fear

Some nights I'd go home and think to myself, "Geez, you said some things tonight." I have no idea. I just let the movie unfold because I'm not afraid. It's not because I'm more this or that than any of you. There is one place where we're really different. I have no fear. I'm not afraid of life, I'm not afraid of being. I'm not afraid of the world. I'm not afraid of gods, demons. I'm not afraid. I have no reason to be afraid. I carry armor, I'm perfectly protected. My Spleen guides and guards me in a way I could never have imagined.

And whatever those slings and arrows are, they don't make any difference. They don't mean anything. To be without fear is beautiful. This is what Inner Authority gives you, to not be afraid about your worth, your value, your beauty, your 'this or that.' To just relax into what it is to be you and see it unfold.

Every Being Is Mythological

I used to try to talk to people about mythology. I know that every single being is mythological. It's like we were talking about Crosses, the 69,200 Crosses. In all of those Crosses, each one is a mythological archetype. And each of those mythological archetypes are broken down into various nuances because we are unique. We are each a unique archetype, and very special.

And the mythology is something that you can only live when you watch it. I've had an incredible experience watching what it is to bring something new into the world. This has been my journey. It's my mythology as a Clarion and I get to watch it. I don't make it happen. I get to watch this machine operate the way in which it was intended to operate. It is my entertainment.

And I am entertained by my mythology because the moment you see yourself mythologically is the moment that you see the archetypes. You see all the patterns. You see what patterns are there for you that have been repeated endlessly. We are mythology. This is the power of uniqueness. What we yearn for, what we all need, is enough of us to be correct so the mythology begins to express itself and we can recognize it, see it, begin to understand there is this beauty that is there in all of us. It's so simple to get there.

We All Carry Within What Is Necessary for Life

Remember, it is an experiment. It just means you launch yourself into it and you see. Because once you give yourself fully to that experiment, the experiment will not deny you what is yours. It can't. You get the freedom of what it is to love yourself. Not false love, not some kind of motivational story; but the truth that you're special and unique, that you have gifts. That nobody knows you. That you're not here to be known in that way. That you are profound and alone. That you carry within you everything that is necessary for you in this life. You lack nothing, there is nothing to lack. There is nothing to miss. There is only the perfection of your life to be lived as yourself.

Oh yes, we have nuances. We have Lefts and Rights, Left Angles and Right Angles, and this kind of Type and that kind of Type, this Definition and that, all that stuff. We are different, but we're here to embrace that difference because the game is just about up. This is the chance, this is what this knowledge gives us. It's a chance at the end of a long line of suffering to find joy. We are not here to be denied joy.

The joyous is the beginning of all patterns. We are not here to be denied joy; it is here for us. But the only way we can get to it is we allow it to come into our lives. You can't chase it any more than you can chase enlightenment. All you can do is be correct. In the correctness, whatever is there that is going to be there for you, it will be there. That's what matters; nothing else.
